

Friday Follies

October 28, 2005

Happy Halloween 2005,
Happy Birthday to ME,
but most of all...
Happy Friday!

Hey!

October 28, 2005

What a great couple of weeks since I wrote last. Just very busy. My birthday was last Sunday and it was extremely nice. I had a friend who had asked me to go off shore fishing, but with the storm brewing, we backed out a couple of days before. Turned out it was a perfect day. Didn't get bad here until Monday and Tuesday.

So instead, Sunday, Jessica and Matt took me to brunch - which really turned out more like a late lunch...Ha! Then, you know what I did Sunday afternoon...the first time in MONTHS! I relaxed! I went to the movie rental store and I rented two movies, came home, started a fire, curled up on my new green leather sofa, and watched two movies! It was just blissful! I mean, it was a beautiful day outside with tons to do, but I did not feel guilty one bit!

I also went to a Halloween Party Saturday night, and in the middle of the party, out came a cake and presents! It was VERY nice and I was VERY surprised. I have VERY goosood friends!!!

But listen to this... This is what I did Sunday night... I swear, I get more like LUCY every, single day! I went upstairs to work on the computer and about ten, I decided to hang some more pictures. At one point I had to close the bedroom door to hang a couple behind it.

Well, when I climbed down, moved the ladder, and tried to open the door, I discovered that it was locked SOLID! I was totally locked in my upstairs bedroom at 11 at night. I had never noticed that the stupid bedroom doors lock from the hallway and not from inside the room. Isn't that the dumbest thing you have ever hear of? I guess they locked their kids in their bedrooms when they misbehaved. I don't know...but I do know that the doors are HEAVY wooden doors - not hollow core doors. Thank Heavens I had been hanging pictures and had my cell phone, and a hammer with me. But the cell phone was pretty useless because at 11 I could not get Jess or Matt on the phone and I hated to call anyone else unless I had to. Plus, I could remember the neighbor's first names but not their last names, so I could not call information for their numbers. Anyway, it took me a solid hour to get out. I had to completely take the door off the hinges and then I still had trouble. (1) it was heavy and (2) even with the hinges off, it was such a tight fit that I had to pry the door latch open with a screw driver. Oh, and because it was so late when I got out I went straight to bed without checking the yard and stuff like normal. I didn't notice that I left the truck lights on and I ran down the battery....Lucy, Lucy, Lucy!

PS. NOTE OF CAUTION... 20 employees were fired from The New York Times here in Norfolk for sending lewd and indecent emails. (To my knowledge, none of the 20 were on our joke list - even though some of the attorneys who represent the company were!) I have asked each and every one of you on this list to tell me if the jokes that accompany these "Follies" place you in jeopardy, or even if they offend you. Please understand that they are intended to be light-hearted and are not mean-spirited in any way. If you are ever offended, do not hesitate to ask to be taken off the Friday Follies Joke List. P.S.S. If you send a joke and I don't use it, it is because it has been used before, and I try not to repeat. Remember, I have been sending these since August of 1997. One tends to go through huge numbers of jokes that way. Disclaimer: When anyone asks if I type all of these jokes, the answer is, "No!" I cut and paste one evening during the week (30 minutes, TOPS). Obviously I don't have time to sit, read, and retype jokes all day!
